Linear Series

Oil Stick on Arches Watercolor Paper

Mounted on Cradle Board

Cold Wax Varnish

This series was inspired while living in Seattle, Washington across the bay from the West Seattle waterfront and witnessing the continuous changes in color and texture created by the differences in light, season and weather. These paintings are a study of linear composition, color and atmosphere in a changing environments of the everyday.

As an artist I've always found Inspiration from simple beauty found in everyday color, texture, shape and the taken for granted things around us.
